Americans are struggling with skyrocketing premiums, small businesses are fighting to remain competitive while providing benefits, and still many more Americans lack access to health insurance and as a result, face mounting hospital bills. We've all heard stories of families going bankrupt from thousands of dollars in medical bills, elderly choosing between prescriptions and groceries, and patients being denied life saving medical procedures due to costs.

We all know what the problems are, now is the time to find a solution.

Panelists include: Jennifer Carter, Director/Attorney Appleseed's Health Care Access Program, Jon Bailey, Director Rural Research & Analysis Center for Rural Affairs, Dr. Mike McGahan, Medical Director at St. Francis Medical Center and Larry Harbour, Small Business Owner from Broken Bow, NE.

Moderators: Jane Flemming Kleeb - SEIU & Connie Benjamin - AARP Nebraska
